New wells.
Autumnal tints.
A pleasant lecture.
A few showers fell Monday night.
Quarterly meeting Saturday and Sunday at Banner.

Mrs. Maples started last Friday on a visit to Ohio.

W. R. C. of Collyer hold their monthly meeting next Saturday.

Treasurer Arnold, of Ness county, left for home by Thursday noon's train.

J. M. Arnold left for St. Joe, by Tuesday's passenger, on a business trip.

Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Fisher and son reached home safely on Friday night.

J. H. Siebert will soon re-open his meat market, and handle a full line of meats.

We need a justice of peace, if only perform a marriage ceremony once in a while.

E. A. Hanchett was brought home sick last Friday. He is suffering from rheumatism.

To EXCHANGE.—Wheat, corn and rye will be taken in exchange for fresh beef, at Blackwell's mill, Collyer. 392-tf

Many of our Republican, as well as Democratic citizens went to Wa-Keeney last Saturday to attend the barbecue.

Under the influence of the recent showers and dews, the grass is trying to spring up anew and has succeeded to slight degree.

Mrs. M. E. Griffith took the delayed west bound passenger Thursday afternoon to meet her lecture engagement at Buffalo Park.

Watches, clocks and jewelry neatly repaired by J. M. Tuttle. All work guaranteed to be first class. Leave orders at Mills & Arnold's store, Collyer.

Mrs. T. Lewis, formerly of Collyer, but now residing at Hill City, Graham county, is the happy mother of a little son, whose birthday will hereafter be celebrated Sept. 12th.

Who can excel this record? C. F. Hawks reports having 800 bushels of corn, which he raised on a little less than 32 acres of ground. Mr. Hawks lives near Banner, Trego county.

Jeptia Bundy, of Barnesville, Ohio, who recently purchased land near Collyer, has written his relatives here that he hopes to bring out his family here this fall, and commence a permanent residence.

COLLYER, KANS., Sept. 4, 1886.

To Whom it May Concern.—I this day transferred to B. O. Richards, my contract with H. D. Chase for section 29, 11, 25. All persons are hereby warned to keep cattle off.

S. A. ORR.

Another drug store has made application for a building in town. This time the parties are from Quinter, and report says, carry a heavy stock of spirits, which our people will protest against being disposed of here.

The marriage of Miss Springer to Mr. Robert Beard will take place Saturday or Sunday at Banner. Miss Springer has long resided with her father a few miles southwest of Collyer, while Mr. B. is one of the new settlers in that locality.

Though defeated by the Buffalo Park Blues at a recent game in their town, the Collyer First Nine will match their skill against that of the same club in the near future, upon their own grounds, and also give a party in the evening in honor of their visitors.

Invitations were extended to most of the young people last week to attend a party to be given by Miss Jessie Bartlett on Friday evening, at her father's house in town. The party was well attended, and Miss Jessie made the occasion a pleasant one for her friends.

In the absence of both the Sunday school superintendent and assistant, Mr. Martin, (recently of Michigan) kindly consented to lead the services. His manner of conducting the services was highly complemented. Sept. Brown arrived at school just as it closed.

The professional temperance lecturer to address a Collyer audience was Mrs. M. E. Griffith, state evangelist of W. C. T. U. of Kansas, last Wednesday evening. A school room of intelligent faces greeted her, and gave close attention to her interesting address. At the close of the lecture a union was organized by Mrs. Griffith at the request of a majority of those in attendance. The union will meet next Sunday after Sunday school.

Anyone who has endured having water hauled for home consumption, fully appreciates a good well, and by the boring process such luxuries are within the reach of most settlers. Three new wells now penetrate the earth in this locality, Mr. Swiggott's being the deepest. The drilling firm ceased their labors at 108 feet, while working in blue shell. C. Malnes has 12 feet of water in a bored well 83 feet deep, a portion of the distance being made by drilling through moss agate rock. W. L. Brown is having a driven well put in at his residence in town, and has a wind mill on hand ready to erect.

Protection And The Laboring Classes.

Mr. Ralph Beaumont, a leading Knight of Labor, made a speech the other night at Portland, Me., in the course of which he took occasion to refer to that portion of Mr. Blaine's speech in which reference was made to the labor question and protection. Mr. Beaumont is reported to have said that it was under protection that the labor trouble had been growing worse, and that the laboring classes would have to have something different from protection before supporting Mr. Blaine.

It is rather difficult to understand, in view of well established facts, how a laboring man, or one speaking in behalf of their interests, can give utterance to such a sentiment as the above. It is, therefore, only reasonable to suppose that either Mr. Beaumont has not given the subject of protection, in reference to its effect upon the condition of working men in this country, very much study, or that regardless of their interests, he is for some cause seeking to arraign them against the party that favors the doctrine of protection.

If Mr. Beaumont had given the subject any consideration he would have found that under the protective system the purchasing power of wages in this country has steadily advanced. That is, they have advanced relatively more than have the commodities of life.

Before Mr. Beaumont declared protection an evil to the workingman he should have examined the wages which workingmen receive in the country under a protective tariff, and those received in the leading free trade nations of the globe. He would have found some very suggestive figures, which might have modified his opinion of the system of protection.

He would have found, for instance, that the average weekly wages paid blacksmiths in Great Britain in 1884 amounted to $7.38, while in New York they amounted to $13 and in Chicago $15. The average weekly wages paid bricklayers in Great Britain amounted to $7.55, in New York $20 and in Chicago $24. Carpenters and joiners received in Great Britain $7.66, in New York $14, and in Chicago $16.50; coopers received in Great Britain $8.50, in New York $12, and in Chicago $12. Drivers and draymen in England received $5.38, in New York $10, and in Chicago $12. Laborers, porters, etc., received in Great Britain $4.70, in New York $9, and in Chicago $10.50. Plasterers in Great Britain $7.80, in New York $18, and in Chicago $27. Plumbers in Great Britain $8.90, in New York $16, and in Chicago $22.50. Printers in Great Britain $7.23, in New York $13, and in Chicago $18. The average wages of sixteen leading trades in Great Britain amounted to $6.75, and in Chicago $15.68.

If this is not eloquent enough testimony to convince Mr. Beaumont that protection is after all a pretty good thing for the workingmen of this country, then it is clear that Mr. Beaumont is not susceptible to the irresistible logic of facts. Very few people will be found to accuse Mr. Blaine of venturing an opinion upon a subject with which he is not well acquainted, but it is very evident that the same cannot be said of Mr. Beaumont.
